Noël and Jean-Claude cultivate 17 hectares since they took over from their grandfather Pierre, one of the first men who made Burgundy famous throughout the world. In 1994, when Pierre died, the Domaine came under the management of his two grandchildren, since his father André had never taken care of it directly. Today, the Ramonet brothers are among the greatest interpreters of the wine of Chassagne-Montrachet, a village in which the "terroir" is the master, through the smallest nuances of Morgeot or Ruchottes. From the 2014 harvest Noël left the management to his brother Jean-Claude who, with the help of his daughter Anne-France, continues Pierre Ramonet's work, confirming himself as an icon of the Côte de Beaune.
