

Loimer

Austria - Kamptal - Langenlois

LOIMER

Ownership/Founders Fred Loimer

Start of Activity 1998

Vitiviniculture Certified biodynamic

Hectares 85

Bottles produced 500.000

BRUT ROSÉ RESERVE

60% Zweigelt, 30% Pinot Noir, 10% St. Laurent

Production area: Langenlois e Gumpoldskirchen

Terrain: loess, gneiss, sedimenti e ghiaia calcarea

Harvest: manual

Vinification: in stainless steel tanks at 18-22°C, malolactic fermentation

Refinement: in stainless steel tanks on whole lees for 4 months, after racking in January a further 4 months on fine lees in steel tanks

Color: rosé

Fragrance: yeast notes together with aromas of plum cake and cherry puff pastry

Flavor: discreet fruitiness, fine mousse, notes of white nougat and hazelnut cake, enveloping texture and wonderfully soft acidity

Alcoholic Grade: 12% vol

---

Fred Loimer, who had just graduated at the beginning of the 1990s, attracted a certain amount of attention and caused quite a stir in the Langenlois and surrounding area because, although he came from a traditional winegrowing family, he had decided to vinify the must obtained from Austria's flagship variety Grüner Veltliner in barrels. Enthusiastic about the good result, he applied the same method to the Chardonnay! In 1998, he took over the winery from his father and in 2000 had a black, minimalist cube built on a 150-year-old cellar excavated by hand in the loess at Langenlois, thus adding new spice to the fascinating Kellergassen, the cellar roads: a true pioneer of the wine architecture movement. Closer to nature, Fred practices viticulture that protects soils and resources and consequently increases the quality of the wines. The Loimer winery began converting to biodynamic farming in 2006 and in 2007 Fred, together with many fellow winegrowers, founded respect-BIODYN, a community that consistently implements and lives biodynamics in viticulture. Spontaneous fermentation with natural yeasts; weeks, sometimes months of soaking on the skins; patient maturation without intervention or additives are just some of the 'secrets' of Fred Loimer and his wines, a true star in the Austrian Kamptal scene.