

Sartarelli

Italy - Brands - Poggio San Marcello (AN)

Ownership/Founders Donatella Sartarelli e Patrizio Chiacchiarini / Ferruccio Sartarelli

Start of Activity 1972

Vitiviniculture Sustainable

Hectares 60 of which 55 are vineyards

Bottles produced 300.000

MILLETTA

Verdicchio dei Castelli di Jesi Classico Riserva

Production area: Poggio San Marcello (AN)

Terrain: medio impasto calcareo

Harvest: manual

Vinification: Strict selection of the best grapes, which are then subjected to cryomaceration for at least 24 hours

Refinement: Long aging of at least 10-12 months in steel and at least 8-10 months in bottle

Color: Intense and vivid straw yellow color

Fragrance: It has a delicate and persuasive scent, very expressive with notes of flint, hawthorn, almond, rose, apricot but also has creamy and toasted notes

Flavor: In the mouth it is intense and enveloping, very balanced, hides the alcoholic note, the finish remains delicate and but with long taste-olfactory persistence, characterized by bitter almond (typical varietal note)

Alcoholic Grade: 14% vol

It all began in 1972 thanks to the passion of a baker, Ferruccio Sartarelli. Passion for his land, passion linked to native grape varieties such as Verdicchio, aiming to produce high quality wines. At the beginning with 15 hectares, through the efforts of Ferruccio daughter, Donatella and her husband Patrizio, the company developed: today the hectares are almost 60, confirming the position of Sartarelli as one of the major interpreters of the appellation. The third generation, represented by Caterina and Tommaso, is already well integrated in the company and continues with the goal of giving value to Verdicchio using the original cultivar in all vineyards, enhancing the features of this extraordinary native grape that gives the best results in this area. Old vines are wisely cultivated, selection from old systems of some clones to get even more complex wines while maintaining the typical variety. The perfect exposures on the left bank of the Esino River in the heart of the appellation of Castelli di Jesi, make Sartarelli an unicum! Fine wines, elegant, deep, perfect ambassadors of their land, the Verdicchio, one of the great white wines in the Italian wine scene.