Fragrance: Aromatic and delicate. Aromas of exotic fresh fruit (pineapple), peach and sage

Flavor: Wine with elegant and velvety flavor, good body and drinkability

Alcoholic Grade: 13.5% vol

Isidoro Princic, alias "Doro", started bottling his first wines in 1952: self-educated in Pradis, in the village of Cormons, he was among the first vine growers to believe in Collio wines. Today Sandro, his son, is proof of that belief as he continues the work of his father. Collio, with its 1,500 hectares under cultivation, has always been the icon of wine-growing Friuli, which is expressed in its varied terrain from the Julian Alps down to the Adriatic Sea. Always flanked by the irreplaceable Grazia, his wife, who follows the hospitality, Sandro is a point of reference of Collio, with his elegant and refined wines, the result of the labour in the vineyards, which amount to 12 hectares of land. His white wines are always vinified in steel, while the reds are vinified in barrels of 20 hectolitres. Since a few years Doro's son, Carlo, joined the company to give a hand to his grandfather with the vineyard management. Six white wines, two of which are ambassadors of their terroir, and two red wines are proofs of one of the greatest interpreters of Collio's and Friuli's wines, always respecting the tradition.
